

MILLING BOARDS FOR CHARITY

FRONT PAGE

David Wyatt, owner and operator of mobile saw mill Porter Creek Lumber Co., traveled to Meridian from Elma, Wash., about a month ago to help process the many downed trees in the wake of Hurricane Katrina. Wyatt's original plan was to donate the lumber to Habitat for Humanity. That plan did not materialize, and now he and his cousin, Steve Gilbert, a Lauderdale County resident, are looking for a deserving home for more than 20,000 board feet of pine, oak and cedar lumber. Those who want to help or who know of hurricane victims in need of lumber to repair a primary residence should contact Gilbert at (601) 880-1920.
